ENGLISH

(COMPELLSORY)

Time allowed: Three Hours

Maximum Marks: 300

Question Paper Specific Instructions

Please read each of the following instructions carefully before attempting questions:

All questions are to be attempted.

The number of marks carried by a question is indicated against it.

Answers must be written in ENGLISH only.

Word limit in questions, wherever specified, should be adhered to.

Any page or portion of the page left blank in the Question-cum-Answer Booklet must be clearly struck off.

Q1. Write an essay in about 600 words on any one topic:

(a) What kind of crisis is India facing – moral or economic?

(b) Participating in sports helps develop good character.

(c) Should students be allowed to grade their teachers?

(d) Not everything that can be counted counts, and not everything that counts can be counted.
Q2. Read carefully the passage below and write your answers to the questions that follow in clear, correct and concise language:

A complete reading program, therefore, should include four factors: at least one good book each week, a newspaper or news magazine, magazines of comment and interpretation, and book reviews. If you keep feeding your intelligence with these four foods, you can be sure that your brain cells will be properly nourished. To this must be added the digestive process that comes from your own thinking and from discussion with individuals or groups.

It is often desirable to make books that you own personally part of your mind by underlining or by marking in the margin the more important statements. This will help you to understand the book as you first read it, because out of the mass of details you must have selected the essential ideas. It will help you to remember better the gist of the book, since the physical act of underlining, with your eyes on the page, tends to put the thought more firmly into your brain cells. It will save time whenever you need to refer to the book.

Above all, never forget that creative intelligence is correlation of facts and ideas, not mere memorizing. What counts is what you can do with your knowledge, by linking it with other things you have studied or observed. If you read Plutarch’s life of Julius Caesar, think how his rise to political power paralleled the technique of Adolf Hitler, or that of your local political boss. If you read a play by Shakespeare, think how his portrayal of the characters helps you to understand someone you know. In everything you read, keep at the back of your mind what it means to your life here and now, how it supports or challenges the things you were taught in school, in church and at home, and how the wisdom you get from books can guide you in your thinking, in your career, in your voting as a citizen and in your personal morals.

Questions:

(a) What are the four things required for a complete reading program and why?
(b) What else is required to feed your intelligence?
(c) Why does the writer recommend underlining or marking in the margin the more important statements?
(d) What use can you put your knowledge to?
(e) How can what you learn from books help you in your life?
Q3. Make a précis of the following passage in about one-third of its length. Please do not give a title to it. Précis should be written in your own language.

If this century has, in the famous phrase, made the world safe for democracy, the next challenge is to make a world safe for diversity. It is in India’s interest to ensure that the world as a whole must reflect the idea that is already familiar to all Indians — that it shouldn’t matter what the colour of your skin is, the kind of food you eat, the sounds you make when you speak, the God you choose to worship (or not), so long as you want to play by the same rules as everybody else, and dream the same dreams. It is not essential in a democratic world to agree all the time, as long as we agree on the ground rules of how we will disagree. These are the global principles we must strive to uphold if we are to be able to continue to uphold them securely at home.

We want a world that gives us the conditions of peace and security that will permit us to grow and flourish, safe from foreign depredations but open to external opportunities. Whether global institutions adapt and revive will be determined by whether those in charge are capable of showing the necessary leadership. Right now many of us would suggest that there is a global governance deficit. Reversing it would require strong leadership in the international community by a number of powers, including the emerging ones. India is an obvious contender to provide some of that leadership. India should aim not just at being powerful – it should set new standards for what the powerful must do.

This is a huge challenge, and one to which India must rise. An analogy from another field is not encouraging; many would argue that India has not acquitted itself well when given the chance to have global impact in one domain — that of the sport of cricket, where India accounts for more than 80 percent of the game’s revenues and perhaps 90 percent of its viewership, giving it an impact on the sport that no country can rival. Clearly, international opinion does not believe that in its domination of world cricket, India has set new standards for what the powerful must do. Broadening the analogy to global geopolitics, one could well say: India, your world needs you.

So India must play its due part in the stewardship of the global commons (including everything from the management of the Internet to the rules governing the exploitation of outer space). We can do it. India is turning increasingly outward as a result of our new economic profile on the global stage, our more dispersed interests around the world, and the reality that other countries, in our neighbourhood as well as in Africa, are looking to us for support and security. India has the ability and the vision to promote global partnerships across the broad range of its interests; it only needs to act.

The world economic crisis should give us an opportunity to promote economic integration with our neighbours in the subcontinent who look to the growing Indian market to sell their goods and maintain their own growth. But as long as South Asia remains divided by futile rivalries, and some continue to believe that terrorism can be a useful instrument of their strategic doctrines, that is bound to remain a distant prospect. We in South Asia need to look to the future, to an interrelated future on our subcontinent, where geography becomes an instrument of opportunity in a mutual growth story, where history binds rather than divides, where trade and cross-border links flourish and bring prosperity to all our peoples. (603 words)
Q4. (a) Rewrite the following sentences after making necessary corrections. Please do not make unnecessary changes in the original sentence.

(i) School is very near my home.
(ii) They never fail who die in great cause.
(iii) It rained an hour before.
(iv) He wrote a most complete account of his travels.
(v) Either of these three answers is incorrect.
(vi) You will be late until you hurry.
(vii) He is seldom or ever absent from school.
(viii) The colours so passed off one another that she could not distinguish them.
(ix) The general as well as his soldiers were killed in the battle.
(x) The boat was drowned.

(b) Supply the missing words:

(i) If you see him give him ____________ message.
(ii) I hope to reach the station ____________ an hour at the outside.
(iii) ______ Rustam and Sohrab, there were three other boys present.
(iv) Invalids are not capable ____________ continued exertion.
(v) ____________ he had not paid his bill, his electricity was cut off.

(c) Use the correct forms of the verbs in brackets:

(i) His company is greatly ____________ after. (seek)
(ii) His courage ____________ him. (forsake)
(iii) The terrified people ____________ to the mountains. (flee)
(iv) The police ____________ no stone unturned to trace the culprits. (leave)
(v) The robber ____________ him a blow on the head. (strike)
(d) Write the antonyms of the following:

(i) Ability
(ii) Precise
(iii) Constructive
(iv) Extravagant
(v) Pretentious

Q5. (a) Rewrite each of the following sentences as directed without changing the meaning:

(i) He finished his exercise and put away his books. (Change into simple)
(ii) In the event of his being late, he will be punished. (Change into compound)
(iii) He said to me, "I have often told you not to play with fire." (Change into indirect speech)
(iv) He said that he had come to see them. (Change into direct speech)
(v) He drove too fast for the police to catch. (Remove 'too')
(vi) The audience loudly cheered the Mayor's speech. (Change into passive voice)
(vii) A reward was given to him by the Governor. (Change into active voice)
(viii) Sita is not one of the cleverest girls in the class. (Change into comparative degree)
(ix) I was doubtful whether it was you. (Change into negative form)
(x) It is sad to think that youth should pass away. (Change into exclamatory sentence)
(b) Use each of the following words to make a sentence that brings out their meaning clearly. Do not change the form of the words. (No marks will be given for vague and ambiguous sentences)

(i) gratitude
(ii) flavour
(iii) explosion
(iv) dismal
(v) clumsy

(c) Choose the appropriate word to fill in the blank:

(i) He got a ________ blow from his enemy. (deadly/deathly)
(ii) The ________ of his speech was very lucid and natural. (delivery/deliverance)
(iii) I do not know how to express my gratitude; you have been ________ to me. (beneficial/beneficent)
(iv) My friend will ________ me to the hospital. (accompany/escort)
(v) We sat in the ________ of a tree and relaxed a while. (shadow/shade)

(d) Use these phrases in sentences of your own to bring out their meaning clearly. Do not change the form of the words.

(i) According to
(ii) All of a sudden
(iii) Ready money
(iv) A burning question
(v) Ins and outs